Key Points

We can learn to live at our center of dynamic consciousness and know that life is ever changing - but it is also changeless.

The life of the spirit is always blissful, loving, real and dynamic. This is the consciousness of immortality, the consciousness that life never changes.

The more we can live at our center, the more we will develop a consciousness of immortality that's worth having. We will find that everything we do expresses immortality. It's something living!

As long as we hold onto a consciousness of death, and consciousness of fear of change - that is the real death.

The fear of death can be terrifying but the actual experience of death is beautiful. There is a feeling of release.

Divine vision is center everywhere, circumference nowhere.

We have to go beyond the consciousness of ego. There's nothing wrong with the ego really, it gives us the incentive to grow. What's wrong, is if we block the energy. We have to be able to let the energy flow through the ego into the Infinite.

Yogananda wrote in his poem Samadhi, "I the cosmic sea, watch the little ego floating in me."
